"Durham—Renowned the World Around" has given place, officially, as a slogan, to "The Bull City," "The Friendly City," "The Convention City" and now to "Durham—A Center of Education and Industry" since James B. Duke, as head of a great tobacco corporation, was plastering the Pyramids of Egypt, the Rock of Gibraltar and other points far and near with tobacco signs. The first slogan is characteristic of Durham, just as all the others enumerated are significant of the activities of one of North Carolina's leading and remarkable municipalities.

Durham was founded around the tobacco industry, her smoking tobaccos and cigarettes taking the name into practically every nation on the globe. In recent years another industry has become an important factor in her development. This is hosiery manufacturing, this city claiming the largest hosiery manufacturing plant in the world, with a capacity of more than 100,000,000 pairs of hosiery a year, half a dozen smaller plants boosting this total to probably 115,000,000 pairs—full fashion and seamless.

The more recent "Center of Education and Industry" added to the name of Durham seems entirely appropriate, since it is in Durham that is being erected what is expected to be the greatest educational institution in America, certainly one of the largest and richest. James B. Duke, who has already made the city famous, made provision in his indenture creating the Duke Endowment of $40,000,000, and later in his will, for Duke University, an institution provided with a building and equipment fund of almost $25,000,000 and an ever increasing endowment of more than twice as much. This great university is now in process of development and will be completed within the next five years—but that is another story and is told more completely under another heading.

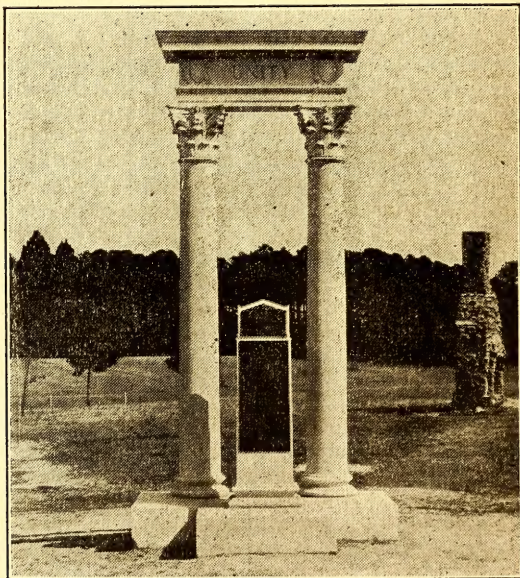

Needless to say, the Duke University building program, the first unit costing $5,000,000 and now nearing completion, and the second unit, costing $15,000,000, work on which is just starting, in addition to the $3,000,000 spent for sites, area and other requisites, has quickened the pulse of an already thriving community and has been the direct and indirect cause of great strides in municipal improvements, real estate developments, banking expansion and numerous other activities that are and will be touched by the educational institution.

Lending further authority to Durham's claim as an educational center is the fact that within 60 miles of this city are found more than 75 per cent. of the educational institutions of the State of North Carolina and probably within that radius are 90 per cent. of the student population of the state, exclusive, in both instances, of the state public school system. Within ten miles, and connected by a beautiful concrete boulevard, is the University of North Carolina, the oldest state university in the United States and one of the leading educational institutions of the South.

Within the boundaries of the city are several other agencies of education and culture that are due more than passing mention. One is the Southern Conservatory of Music, which claims to be the equal of any in the country in thoroughness and extent, an entirely local organization that each year has a student body numbering around 150 from all over the South. Another such institution is the Durham School of Music. The Durham Business School takes high rank among such institutions. The Durham public school system, with its four high schools, is second to none in the state and has enrolled among its students approximately 10,000 pupils, white and colored. The North Carolina College for Negroes, located within this city, is developing into an important school for negro boys and girls of the state, which took it over and made it a state institution two years ago.

Durham, however, had its beginning in industry—the tobacco industry—the start of which antedates the War Between the States. Two incidents happened in Durham during the closing days of that internal strife, each of which deserves a special paragraph.

BENNETT MEMORIAL

Three miles west of Durham stands a monument, marking a site of unusual historic interest. A few feet from the marker is an old rock chimney which served until about six years ago a house, built of logs. The tablet relates that in this house sat one spring day two mighty leaders; General Sherman, of the Federal forces, and General Johnston, of the Confederate army, on either side of a table, the central adornment of which was a bottle of whiskey from which they sipped sparingly. It was here that the terms of surrender of the Confederate forces to General Sherman were worked out, bringing to a close the Civil War, except for scattered fights along the Mississippi River.

While the generals were settling the fate of the nation, the Yanks and Rebels were stationed in the vicinity, idling away the time with sports and forages. Some happened upon a small log building in which they found a stock of smoking tobacco. The word spread, and blue and gray, with united front, swooped down on the little storehouse, filling their pockets with the fragrant tobacco. J. R. Green, the owner, was practically ruined by the loss—temporarily. Hardly had the soldiers had time to reach their widely scattered homes after the war ended before letters, addressed to postmaster, station agent, mayor, constable and others known only by title, commenced to pour into Durham, all asking for ways of securing more of “that Durham tobacco.”

That piece of accidental advertising not only more than recompensed the loser for his stolen stores, but actually was the beginning of the “making” of the tobacco industry in Durham, a beginning which has gradually increased through the years, until more than $100,000,000 is the present value of the tobacco products of this city. Last year the Durham tobacco factories paid to the United States government approximately $48,000,000 in taxes for stamps used on tobacco manufactured here. Durham claims as a native the greatest tobacco genius in the nation, for the late James B. Duke, who as a youth worked in his father’s little tobacco plant in this city, furnished the brains for organizing the great American Tobacco Company of earlier days and the British-American Tobacco Company and was president from the beginning of these two corporations for many years.

Developing during more recent years, hosiery manufacturing is rapidly becoming one of Durham’s more important industrial activities. The late Julian S. Carr, Jr., was the founder of the largest hosiery group of plants in the world, with a capacity in excess of one hundred million (100,000,000) pairs of hosiery, full-fashioned and seamless, a year. The products of this plant find their way to every civilized country in the world. Only recently the U. S. Navy placed an order for 400,000 pairs of cotton-wool socks, following closely another order for 300,000 pairs of cotton half-hose. Half a dozen other hosiery plants add to the total output and the weekly payrolls in the hosiery industry.

Almost a dozen textile mills turn out high grade cotton, silk, rayon and mixed products, including sheetings, shirtings, gingham, suitings, bed spreads, pillow cases and numerous other fabrics, including several of the novelty varieties. Textile mill products annually run in excess of $10,000,000. Several other industries, the largest of which is manufacturing small bags for tobacco and other products, help to round out a remunerative and continuously expanding industrial community.

Municipal activities have been particularly apparent during the past two years. The most important was the completion early last year of one of the most complete and modern water supply systems in the South. The project, including the erection of a huge dam on Flat River, six miles from the city at a cost of $1,600,000, gives Durham a water supply that would last the city three years, if not another drop of water should fall in this section during that period. Nine months’ flow of the river was necessary to fill the huge impounding lake. The surplus water is sufficient, not only to supply power for operating the water system, but for sale to the local public service company.

Early last year the city started a public improvement program now nearing completion, calling for an expenditure of approximately $2,500,000, including the paving of streets and sidewalks, laying water mains, and sewer lines, creating new through-traffic streets as a part of the State highway system, widening other streets, providing underpasses and bridges and other municipal activities. More than a million dollars of this amount was for street paving, with petitions for almost as much more street work awaiting the completion of the present program.

AUDITORIUM

Slightly more than a year ago the City Auditorium, a modern theatre building, was completed and opened, with a seating capacity of 2,200. Since that time numbers of conventions, legitimate shows and Durham's annual Grand Opera events have been presented in the handsome structure. About a year and a half ago, also, Durham's no less than wonderful hotel, containing 300 rooms and 300 baths, the largest and most magnificent in the State, was completed and opened. This hotel, costing approximately $1,700,000, has been the headquarters for about 35 conventions during the past 15 months, with about 20 scheduled for this year, practically all as much as state-wide in their scope, others taking in even greater territory. At one time, during the District Rotary Conference last year, the hotel fed 1,100 persons at one time. This hotel, with the Malbourne, which recently spent $40,000 in a complete refurnishing program, and several smaller ones, is responsible for Durham's slogan of "The Convention City."

Fully $3,000,000 has been spent in Durham during the past five-year period for church construction and improvement of church property. Other than the fact that the city has an abundance of modern churches and is composed of a church-going population, the most interesting church step has been taken in the erection of a rural church near the city, which is a model church construction. Most of the funds for "Duke's Chapel" was provided by Benjamin N. Duke and the Duke Endowment, the total cost being $50,000. The edifice is erected from stone taken from Duke University's quarry 15 miles away, the same quarry that will furnish stone for the 40 massive buildings of the greater University unit, from plans drawn by the University's architect and erected by the University's supervising contractor. It is a memorial to the older brother of Washington Duke, father of James B. and Benjamin N. Duke, namely, William Duke, who built the log church nearly 100 years ago, in which his nephews received their early religious training.

Recently Durham has adopted a city plan and complete zoning system, expected to correct some of the mistakes already made in city planning, and to serve as a basis for finally developing a city along broad and comprehensive lines. In this connection, although not caused by the plan, it might be well to state that the Southern Railway has recently built shifting yards, roundhouse and other facilities in the western section of the city, as a step in this road's extensive freight-handling improvements to be made in Durham during the next few years.

While figures are sometimes dry reading, it often takes them to show what manner of a place a city is and recourse to them is sought for this purpose. now.

In the first place, Durham has two national, two industrial, six state and one joint stock land bank, with combined surplus and undivided profits of $4,000,000, deposits of $20,000,000 and total assets of $30,000,000. Last year these banks showed debits of $355,516,897.82, an increase of more than $49,000,000 over 1925; clearings of $106,378,688.94, the one-year increase exceeding $6,000,000; and payrolls of the larger corporations of $9,295,458.87—increase of more than a quarter of a million dollars over 1925.

Building permits, also a good index, amounted to $3,371,000 in 1926, as compared with $2,175,000 (exclusive of one $3,000,000 permit secured by Duke University) in 1925, almost double the amount of the year before. Business buildings last year numbered 141, costing $2,194,608, while residences numbered 470, costing $1,176,396. Postal receipts amounted to $183,512.00 in 1926, as compared with $166,648.32 in 1925, or an increase of 11 per cent.

Although Durham is located 170 miles from the seashore, the City is one of the greatest ports of entry in the South. Customs collections paid on foreign goods received at the Durham port amounted last year to $1,518,192.12, an increase of approximately 30 per cent. over 1925. This port has shown remarkable growth since it was opened about five years ago. The foreign goods received include European tobaccos, cigarette papers and other constituents of cigarettes and smoking tobaccos.

Durham is known primarily as "a working man's town," but recreational activities are not neglected entirely. Three miles from the city is being completed one of the nicest country club developments in the State. The roof has already been placed on the $60,000 club house, said to be one of the most attractive and unusual for the price that has ever been built, while play will start with the opening of spring on a $50,000 Donald Ross golf course. The membership of the club is composed of members of the faculties of Duke University, two miles from the club house, and of the University of North Carolina, six miles away, and of the citizens of Durham generally.

Already the city has two golf courses, the Hillandale, privately owned, with 18 holes, and the Forest Hills, with nine holes.

Last year, early in the season, El Toro park, home of the Durham Bulls, club of the Piedmont baseball league, was completed, giving this city one of the finest baseball parks in the South. At its dedication, Kenesaw Mountain Landis pitched the first ball, which was caught-at by Governor Angus Wilton McLean, of North Carolina, after His Excellency had led around the field a huge red bull, the club's mascot, with the high commissioner of baseball astride his broad back.

The Durham Woman's club has recently occupied a modern club house, while a Young Women's Christian Association building, constructed along modern lines, has just been completed giving this organization a home to take the place of the one outgrown. The Young Men's Christian Association is making plans for a still larger structure not so close in from the sale of the present valuable property.

Durham has four very active civic clubs, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and American Business Clubs, all contributing their part to the development and growth of the city. An active Chamber of Commerce leads in such activities, while practically all of the main professions and business groups have their associations, in addition to the social organizations usually found in a city of Durham's size and conditions.

The growth of Durham has been rapid, but substantial, based along broad and solid industrial lines. Records show that in 1870 Durham was a community of 256 souls. Thirty years later the number had increased to 6,679, while the next decade saw it treble. In 1920 the U. S. Census report showed a population of 21,719. It was during the next five-year period that Durham passed from the town to the city class, by extending her limits to take in two populous suburbs, so that the Government census of 1925 showed a population of 42,258. The Census bureau estimates of 1926 increased the number to 43,900, giving Durham fourth place among the cities of North Carolina.

During the next ten years the city should show greater progress than during any like period in its history. The great Duke University building program will have been completed and the institution will be functioning fully before the end of that period. Many of the great developments that will follow in its wake, some now in the minds of men, others not yet thought of, will be completed or well under way. By every means available of forecasting the future, Durham has one of the best opportunities of any city in North Carolina, state of wonderful possibilities, of becoming a large, prosperous and populous city.

There is also located in Durham the North Carolina State College for Negroes, the only grade "A" college for colored people, supported by the State, in North Carolina. Enrollment for 1926-27, 325.

Convention Facilities—Hotel rooms, with bath, 490; without bath 204, total 694. Maximum capacity of lodging accommodations, 1,450 persons; capacity in excess of ordinary requirements, 700 persons. Assembly halls, capacity 800, ball room capacity, 500—12 committee rooms; auditorium, seating capacity, 2,200.

County—Durham County was created by act of the General Assembly in 1881 from parts of Orange and Wake Counties. While Durham is not a large County, it is the center of the famous bright leaf tobacco belt. About 20,000,000 pounds of tobacco are sold each year on the Durham market. Tobacco is the principal money crop, although cotton, corn and truck are also important. The County has good roads and splendid schools and churches.

Education—Durham is recognized as being one of the leading educational centers of the South. Its colleges and university, its public school system, its schools of music and business school are rated among the best in the South by leading educators. (See Colleges and Schools).

Fire Protection—Durham has a well equipped fire department with four stations and paid personnel, giving Durham first-class insurance rating.

Government—Durham has had the Council-Manager form of government since May 4, 1921. It is admitted to be one of the best governed cities in the State.

Health—Durham has a well organized Board of Health, with 18 employees, charged with supervision of health conditions in the entire county. It has been remarkably successful in its work. The white death rate for 1926 was only 10.2 to the 1,000. The death rate for both races was 13.8. The birth rate was 29.9. Milk, meats, water, markets, dairies, hotels and eating places are carefully inspected. (See report of Board of Health, 1926, for more detailed information).

Industries—Durham is the second largest industrial center in North Carolina; its output of manufactured products being valued at more than $130,000,000 annually. It has large tobacco industries, manufacturing such well-known brands as Duke's Mixture, Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco and a great many brands of cigarettes, including the famous Chesterfield. It is the home of the Durham Hosiery Mills (manufacturers of the Durable Durham Hosiery, the largest manufacturers of hosiery in the world), and the Golden Belt Manufacturing Company, the largest small bag manufacturers in the world. There are also manufactured in Durham Erwin and White Star sheetings and pillow cases, Glasgow Zephyrs gingham, chambrays and chevots, Virginia-Carolina fertilizers, Occaneechee, Peerless and Climax flours, silk shirtings and sports goods, novelty fabrics, blank books, castings and iron products, cigars, harness, bread, ice, mattresses, brick, overalls, wagons, building materials and proprietary medicines. On account of nearness to source of raw materials, cheap electric power, and its transportation facilities, Durham offers unexcelled opportunities for the location of industries.

Hospitals—Watts Hospital (public—white) is one of the finest hospitals in the South. Value, $1,250,000. 190 beds. Personnel of 21 physicians, 31 staff officers and internes and 75 nurses. Endowed by Mr. Geo. W. Watts and partly supported by contributions from city and county. Lincoln Hospital (public—colored). Value, $200,000. 100 beds. Personnel of 10 physicians and 38 nurses. Partly supported by contributions from city and county. McPherson Hospital (private—ear, eye, nose and throat). Value, $103,000. 25 beds. Personnel of 3 physicians and six nurses. Duke University Medical School will have a large general hospital of probably 400 beds. This hospital is expected to be opened in 1929.

Hotels—Durham is unusually well provided with hotel facilities. The Washington Duke is one of the finest hotels in the South, having been constructed at a cost of more than $1,700,000. It has 300 bed rooms, all with bath. The Malbourne Hotel—200-room capacity—is a fire-proof hotel and newly furnished throughout. Other hotels are the Lochmoor, the Union, Church Street, Central House and Savoy. Hotel rates, $1.00 to $5.00 per day—European plan.

Location—Durham is situated in the geographical center of North Carolina, a few miles north of the center of population of the State. Its terrain is slightly rolling and well drained.

Payrolls—The industrial payrolls of Durham exceed $12,000,000 annually.

Population—The Federal Census of 1920 gave Durham a population of 21,719. On April 1st., 1925, the corporate limits of the city were extended and the population of the city as shown by Special U. S. Census was 42,258. The Census Bureau estimates for 1927 is 45,600. Native born white, 63.9%, colored, 35.2%, foreign born white 8.10%. Within a radius of 25 miles of Durham there are 176,000 people; 50 miles, 610,000; 100 miles, 2,100,000.

Recreation—Community recreation, under supervision of Playground and Recreation Commission, supported by public taxation. Two parks containing swimming pools, tennis courts, etc., and several large playgrounds, maintained by industrial plants for the use of employees. Two eighteen hole golf courses; one nine hole golf course. Magnificent new Country Club; tennis and gun club; college football, baseball, basketball, track, boxing and wrestling. The schedules of Duke University and the University of North Carolina offer Durham citizens the opportunity of seeing some of the best college teams of the east and south in action. Durham also has a professional team in the Piedmont League, with a baseball park and grounds valued at $150,000.

Schools—The public school system of Durham is nationally known for its equipment, high scholastic standards and progressive policies. In addition, the Durham School of Music and the Southern Conservatory of Music rank among the leaders in their field. The Durham Business School is a fully accredited class "A" institution.

Social Agencies—Young Men's Christian Association, Young Woman's Christian Association, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Travelers Aid, King's Daughters, Board of Charities and Public Welfare and Wright Refuge for children.

Theatres—Two motion picture theatres for white and one for colored, one vaudeville theatre and one legitimate theatre—seating capacity, 2,200.

WATTS HOSPITAL

Streets—Durham is today one of the best paved cities in the State, and several hundred thousand dollars are being expended each year for street paving. The white-way lighting system in the business district is admitted to be one of the best in the South.

Transportation—Durham has five lines of railroads, radiating in seven different directions. It has two lines of Southern Railway, the Seaboard Air Line Railway, the Norfolk and Western Railway, the Durham and Southern Railway, and the Norfolk-Southern Railroad. These railroads afford unusually good freight facilities. Durham is also on the National Highway and the Central Highway—the principal routes between the North and South and between the East and West. Excellent bus service is maintained between Durham and Raleigh, Henderson, Oxford, Roxboro, Greensboro, Chapel Hill, Pittsboro and Siler City.

Railroad Tonnage

1915.....	835,000 Tons
1925.....	1,303,282 Tons

Taxes And Valuation—In 1926 the City of Durham had an assessed valuation of $71,721,785, with a city tax rate of $1.35 on the $100. The tax rate showed a decrease of 5c on the $100 over the previous year. Property assessed on 75% of true value. The County of Durham had an assessed valuation of $83,828,563 and a county tax rate of $1.05, which showed a decrease of five cents over the previous year. Property assessed on 75% of true value. No property tax is levied by the State. The City Council has already stated that a material reduction would be made in the city tax rate for 1927, the exact amount of decrease depending on values shown by the quadrennial assessment now being made.

Water—The City of Durham has an ample supply of pure water. An impounding reservoir, completed in 1926, stores 4,600,000,000 gallons which, if used for no other purpose, would at the present rate of consumption supply the demand for a period of three years. There is no longer any danger of a water shortage ever occurring. The water is excellent for domestic purposes, and is soft and free from iron, making it very desirable for industrial uses.

DURHAM HOUSEHOLDERS' DIRECTORY (1927)

HILL'S Street and Householders' Directory OF DURHAM, N. C. 1927

Copyrighted, 1927, by Hill Directory Co., Inc.

In this section the streets are arranged in alphabetical order, the numerically named streets follow immediately the named streets in numerical order, without regard to geographical location, the intersecting streets being shown at proper intersection. The number of each building on the street is given in numerical order, and opposite the number the name of the occupant householder. In the business blocks containing offices and stores the occupants of each place are shown. In some of the outlying districts the street numbers are incorrect, the houses not numbered, or are so scattered that it was not thought advisable to include in the Householders' Directory such streets in this issue. The name of every inhabited street, however, is given with full description. The list includes all alleys, avenues, courts, places, circles, squares, terraces and sub-divisions, giving their location as near and concise as possible.

The profession, business, etc., of individuals and firms will be found in the Alphabetical section of this directory.

Every effort has been made to insure accuracy in this issue. If your house does not appear upon its proper street, or if the street upon which you reside does not appear, we will thank you to notify us so that correction will be assured in the next issue.

Note.—Dash (—) before name denotes that the house should have a number between the one preceding and the one following it. () between two intersecting streets show there are no houses between them.

Power of Advertising

The City Directory is the power that generates information for the buyer that he may know who deals in the product he wishes to purchase.

If your business is not classified properly and a display advertisement arranged to describe your business, how can you expect the buyer to trade with you?

Advertising is the foundation upon which successful businesses are built. You must apply this to your own particular business.

Advertising is the power of an idea multiplied.
